

I'M NOT A DOCTOR:

If Tiger Woods can't even talk (press conference) what chance does he have to win a tournament anytime soon? Remember this is the guy who said repeatedly he only enters to win. Two weeks after pulling out of a tournament due to back spasms, its still plaguing him? And what we do know is that he flew to LA after flying back from Dubai and then was advised by his doctor to remain horizontal! This doesn't add up or for that matter pass the smell test? It would seem prudence should intervene and in turn caution prevail. Is it too early to suggest the chances of seeing Woods in Augusta with his golf clubs are remote??? Meanwhile, his agent is on the record as saying, "The goal is to get everything to calm down, have it calm down for a while, continue to get treatment and get back to a place where he's chipping and putting and hitting balls. We're not talking about an extended break." His body, if we are to believe everything we're told, would appear to say otherwise!
